Eaves Faces Trial For Sunday Show

Saenger Manager Facing Trial In Local J. P. Court

Opening Show On Sunday Is Basis for Complaint Against Eaves.

TO HAVE JURY TRIAL

"Home Rule for Cities" Is Issue Though Not Admissible In Evidence.

"Home Rule" for Cities in Arkansas will be the issue at stake when the case of the State of Arkansas vs. Jack Eaves, manager of the Saenger theatre here, is called for trial in Judge Bright's court Thursday morning, with Prosecuting Attorney Steve Carrigan for the State and Messrs. Luke Monroe and Will Atkins for the defense. That angle of the case will not enter into the testimony, of course, for evidence adduced will be restricted to that which is pertinent to the point at issue. Behind it all, however, will lie the question of each city determining for itself matters, in no wise controverting its own rational law.

Following a Sunday show at Saenger theatre something like a month ago, given as a benefit to the American Legion which sponsored the recent Melon Festival, and came out in the hole—Manager Jack Eaves was arrested on a charge of Sunday violation and the case comes up Thursday morning at ten o'clock. Officers are duty-bound to prosecute for duty in the case, endeavoring to choose only level-headed, fair-minded men who can see both sides of the question and not be blinded by passion nor prejudice.

Indications are at this time that the court will of necessity adjourn to the City Auditorium to give those interested in the outcome a chance to hear the proceedings, present quarters of Justice Bright being entirely too small to accommodate the expected crowd.

Garrett Heads Conway School

Named To Serve During the Absence of Dr. Torreyson.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Dr. C. W. Torreyson, president of State Teachers College at Conway, was today granted a six months' leave of absence by the Board of Trustees to permit him to continue the medical treatment he is now taking at Boulder, Col.

The action was taken following the receipt of a letter from Dr. Torreyson in which he asked that Col. Heber McAlister be placed in charge of the institution during his absence. The board granted the request. Dr. Torreyson has been in ill health for some time.

German Police Block Terrorists

Believe That Conspiracy To Harm Republic Has Been Uncovered.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A conspiracy of terrorists against the German government organized by fanatical members of the notorious "Consul," an organization founded by the Ex-naval Captain Earhardt, is believed to have been uncovered by police who have arrested 20 alleged to have been implicated in the recent bombing outrages in various parts of Germany, including an attempt against the Reichstag building.

The leader of the organization is a former police captain Nickels at Stuttgart who police followed the Lamberg district after recent bombings of the Lamberg provincial government office. After several bombing outrages, Nickels was followed to Krambe where he was taken into custody.

indy Grows Up!

These pictures illustrate how, in two years, the strain of being a world hero has transformed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from a care-free youth into a man, his face strengthened and hardened by the worries of his career. The two lower photos were taken at the time of Lindbergh's special flight from New York to Paris. Contrast them with the upper picture, snapped when he attended the National Air Races in Cleveland recently.

She Plays Poker, Gets No Alimony

Chicago Jurists Says $300 Weekly Winnings Is Sufficient.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg is of the opinion that a woman who makes $300 every week playing poker, can get along nicely without taking $100 a week in alimony from a husband who claims he is making but $75 a week. The wife of Thomas H. Blondell, an insurance adjuster, appeared in court today, asking separate maintenance and $100 a week alimony. She represented that her husband was taking $25,000 a year, and spent large sums maintaining a racing stable. Blondell, in defense, charged her with habitual intoxication and gambling and denied he is spending $150 a week for the upkeep of his stable.

The case presented so many angles that Judge Feinberg refused temporary alimony and passed the case to Circuit Judge Thomas Lynch, who will decide what is to be done after Blondell's income has been established.

Russo-Chinese Trouble Halted

Bombings and Air Raids Temporarily Halted Is Report.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 11.—(AP)—An official communique of the Manchurian government today announced that fighting which broke out the latter part of last week between Russian and Chinese forces on both east and west Manchuria border points ceased Monday afternoon.

No report of casualties save that suffered by Chinese at Pogranichnaya is available.

Baby Dies From Hurts Suffered Under Train

McCRORY, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Anna Marie Simmons, four years old, died today from injuries received when she was run over by a train on the Sea spur line yesterday afternoon. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Simmons, on Morton.

Entries Pouring In for Exhibits At Annual Fair

Nevada County Leads Others In Number and Variety of Entries.

EARLY ENTRY URGED

Officials Request That Live Stock and Poultry Owners Get Busy.

If entries come in within the next ten days from other counties in this section of the state as they are coming in from Nevada county, all records for exhibits at the Southwest Arkansas Fair should be broken on this year.

Tuesday's mail brought in seventy entries in the poultry department and indications now point to at least two hundred birds from Nevada county. Those who have already made entries in this department are Lenn Caruthers, Dr. J. R. Pierce, W. P. Brunson, H. E. Thornton, H. J. Wilson, Theo. F. Hall, A. A. Gordon, A. E. Cross, B. Calicut, W. S. Roe, Layman Dickinson, Lee Caruthers W. O. Waters all of Prescott and C. C. Harvey of Bluff City.

Nevada county will also have a county booth as well as numerous exhibits in the various departments. Nevada county has always won its share of the premiums offered at the Southwest Arkansas Fair and her county booth carried off first honors last year.

Entries are coming in from other sections and reports indicate that, in spite of the continued dry weather, the agricultural exhibits will come up to the standard of former years.

The fair management is anxious that livestock and poultry entries be made as early as possible in order that the necessary facilities for handling these exhibits may be provided. Those who have not been provided with entry blanks should call or write Secretary W. Homer Pigg who will supply them promptly.

Senate Starts Another Probe

Will Look Into Activities of Ship-Building Concerns.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The senate today ordered an investigation into the activities of American ship-building corporations at the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference. Without a dissenting vote the board resolution was adopted authorizing the inquiry. There was but little debate on the proposition. The senate naval committee will meet early tomorrow to begin the investigation.

Department Seeks to Reduce Air Mail Charges

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Postmaster General Brown today summoned air mail contractors to a conference in Washington on September 30 at which the department will endeavor to reduce the rates by the government for air mail service.

College Heads To Discuss Survey

Governor Calls Meeting of Educators To Consider Question.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Governor Parnell today called a meeting of all state college heads in Little Rock for September 23 to take definite action regarding the proposed survey of all schools in the state.

Dr. Arthur J. Klein, chief of the division of higher education in the Federal Bureau of Education, will confer with college heads regarding the survey which the federal bureau will conduct, funds for which were provided by each state school making a cut in its appropriation. It is planned for the survey to start immediately. It is not whether Dr. Klein will conduct the survey personally or detail some member of his staff to look after it.

She Will Lead $1,000,000 Parade

Miss Evelyn Smith, famous California horsewoman, is shown astride her beautiful Palomino stallion, Roy Del Mundo, as they will appear at the head of the "Million Dollar Livestock Parade" opening the Los Angeles county fair on Sept. 17, at Pomona, Calif. Miss Smith owns the largest stable of Palomino horses in America, the Palomino being a cross between the Arabian stock and the early imported Spanish thoroughbreds.

Legion Chow Line Wednesday Night

Local Post Plans General Good Time At Meeting Next Week.

Barney Hamm, post commander of local Legion, announces that at the army next Wednesday night there will be a real Legion doings at which every ex-service man in this section is expected to be present, whether he belongs to the Legion or not.

There will be a short business session—not long enough to disturb anybody—and then a gathering of the gang to fall in for chow. Said chow will be that the fellows all cussed a few short years ago but which is made tasteful and savory these days by mellow memories.

Commander Hamm is endeavoring to secure the attendance of the State Commander for the meeting and hopes to have him present. Also there'll be a few remarks about trying to choose an Arkansas lawyer as next National Commander, a matter in which every loyal member of this post is interested. The time is next Wednesday night, September 18. The place is the National Guard armory in Hope and every ex-service man in this part of the state is urged to attend.

Star Publisher Away and Employes Step Out

Alex H. Washburn, publisher of Star, left this morning for Hot Springs for the day, returning by way of El Dorado where he will look after business matters Thursday. He drove up to the Spa to show a sister, Miss Martha, who came in Tuesday afternoon, the sights of Arkansas' greatest resort.

During his absence the shop will limp along on six cylinders instead of hitting on eight as it does when he is around keeping the old machine in high gear. If there's anything you like shows up in these columns, don't hesitate to say so, but just wait till the boss gets back. Film Actress Is Before Grand Jury Body Wants To Know Just Where Her Burglar Brother Is.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Sally O'Neill, film actress, was ordered to appear before the county grand jury today to be questioned regarding the whereabouts of her 21-year-old brother, sought on a burglary charge preferred by Ted Lewis, musician and vaudeville actor.

The county sheriff's office disclosed yesterday that the burglary complaint was lodged two weeks ago with a Justice of the Peace at Beverly Hills but that Noonan had successfully avoided apprehension.

Highway Suit Goes To Higher Court for Final Ruling

Holder of District Bonds Seek To Tie Up State Road Program.

HUGE SUM IS SOUGHT

Plaintiff's Ask $110,000 and No Money Paid Out Before Claim Settled.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Con Grable and others today filed an appeal in the Supreme Court from a ruling of the Pulaski chancery court which denied them a judgment of $110,000 as refused to grant a restraining order to prohibit the Highway Commission from paying out any funds until their claim was settled.

The claim on which the suit was brought is based on Act No. 153 of the legislature of 1929 which made certain highway funds available to pay indebtedness of special road improvement districts existing before the Martineau road act went into effect in 1927.

The complainants allege that they are holders of the bonds of several districts which the commission refuses to retire. In sustaining the demurrer, Chancellor Dodge, in Pulaski county, held that the act was invalid.

County Judges To Unite for Sibeck

Will Back Pulaski Official In Effort To Keep Prisoners.

HELENA, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Full support of the Arkansas County Judges Association will be given to Judge W. F. Sibeck, of Pulaski county in his efforts to retain for county road work 51 prisoners the state is attempting to place in the penitentiary, Judge John C. Sheffield, president of the Association, said today.

Judge Sheffield will assist Judge Sibeck a hearing before Marvin Harris Pulaski county circuit judge tomorrow when penitentiary officials will attempt to obtain judicial sanction of their claim for the prisoners under an act of the last legislature which provided for return to the penitentiary of all prisoners which had been held and worked on the county roads.

Sheriff Sheffield characterized the move as "an administration attempt to meddle in county affairs."

Two Go To Death In Electric Chair

Former Police Officer and Companion Pay Penalty for Murder.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Homer Simpson, former Greenville, Tenn., police chief, and Malcolm Morrow, of Jacksonville, Fla., died in the electric chair at the Georgia prison farm here today for the murder of C. A. Terry, cashier of the State Bank of Kingsland, Ga., on February 23, 1928.

Morrow went to the chair at 12:15, p. m., and was pronounced at 12:30. Simpson went at 12:35 and was declared dead at 12:44.

Minnesota Congressman Dies In Night Blaze

BATTLE LAKE, Minn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Congressman C. J. Kvale, of the Seventh Minnesota District, was believed burned to death last night in a fire which destroyed his summer cottage at Otter Tail lake, north of here.

A body found in the ruins of the cottage was today said to be that of the congressman, though so badly charred that positive identification was impossible.

State Debt Board Bolsters Credit

Gives Prospective Buyers of Bonds Information As To State's Resources.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The state Debt Board at a meeting today instructed Ralph Koonse, state treasurer, to compile for the benefit of prospective bond buyers information as to the state's means of retiring a $400,000 note issue which will be sold shortly to finance the state revolving school loan fund.

Attorneys had held against accepting the issue until such time as there had been made available additional information as to the state's ability to retire the notes.

Middlebrooks Makes Acre Pay Plenty Money

O. D. Middlebrooks came in this morning from his Patmos farm with a load of little, knobby gourd-like watermelons, some he pulled out of the patch to let the larger ones grow. He only had 19 on the wagon—but they tipped off better than 1800 pounds. Which is a fair-to-middling load!

This is Middlebrooks' third year as a grower of melons. One acre he planted to the Triumph-Watson cross has already brought him more than $100. The load today will add to that total. And there are two more loads in the patch. Did someone say something about raising cotton?

Escaped Convict Is Shot To Death

Gun Battle Ensues When Police Attempt To Stop Stolen Car.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Steve Pawlak, Buffalo convict who, with three companions escaped from Auburn prison during the riots of Sunday, July 28, was shot and seriously wounded early today in a gun fight with Buffalo police. At the hospital surgeons said the patient was delirious and that his death was a matter of only a few hours.

Pawlak and two companions were riding in a car which had been reported to the police as stolen Tuesday afternoon. Police touring the city noticed the license number for which they had been watching and endeavored to halt the car. Occupants of both cars deserted them while both were still running and while they sped on down the street to crash into buildings opened a revolver battle.

Pawlak was wounded and a companion captured while the third man, apparently wounded, effected his escape.

THE WEATHER

Annual Good Will Tour Gets Prompt and Early Start

Annual Affair Larger This Year Than Since Its Inception.

HEADED BY BAND

Itinerary for Day Leads Thru Hope's Southern Territory.

The annual good-will tour of Hope business and professional men, headed by Hope Boys Band, got under way from the City Hall here promptly at eight o'clock this morning, with about 15 automobiles and some 75 persons making the trip.

The route today includes Bodcaw, Willisville, Waldo, A. & M. College—where luncheon will be served—Magnolia, McNeill, Buckner, Stamps and Lewisville.

Again Thursday morning the tourists will hit the booster trail, during the day visiting Fulton, McNabb, Saratoga, Okay, Mineral Springs—luncheon here—Nashville, Ozan, Washington, Blevins, Prescott and Emmett.

This tour is an annual affair, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and intended to make known to all the fact that Hope welcomes them, not only to the Southwest Arkansas Fair but at any and all times.

Firemen Close Annual Meeting

Election of Officers and Naming Next Meeting Place Is All.

CAMDEN, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Election and installation of officers and the selection of the next convention city late today will mark the concluding session of the three-day meeting of the Arkansas Firemen's Association.

Association members and visitors to the number of approximately 250 were entertained at a barbecue by the Camden Chamber of Commerce last night. Yesterday afternoon a drill team from the Little Rock department staged a fire-fighting and lifesaving demonstration in a down-town building.

Telluride Banker Back To New York

Says He Alone Responsible for Fake Messages To Gotham Banks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Chas. H. Tuttle, United States district attorney today wired police at Newcastle, Wyo., to hold Chas. D. Waggoner, president of the Telluride, Colo., bank, for Federal authorities here.

The request for Waggoner's detention on a federal warrant was telegraphed to the United States District Attorney at Cheyenne.

The federal grand jury here today continued its investigation of the manipulation by which Waggoner obtained $500,000 credit from six New York banks on fraudulent cost messages from Denver financial institutions.

NEWCASTLE, Wyo., Sept. 11.—(AP)—C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Colo., was arrested here today in connection with transactions by which he obtained half million dollar credit from New York banks on unauthorized orders from Denver banks. Waggoner said he alone was responsible and that he acted as he did in the hope of protecting depositors in his bank at Telluride. "The bottom had dropped out of things in Telluride," he said, "and desperate measures were necessary. I had rather see New York banks lose money than the people of Telluride, most of whom have worked all their lives for the savings they had deposited in my bank."

If love were not, the wild rose
Would in its leafy heart enclose
No chalice of perfume;
By mossy bank, in glen or grove,
No bird would build, if love were not,
No flower complacent bloom.
The sunset clouds would lose their dyes,
The light would fade from beauty's eyes,
The stars their fires consume.
And something missed from hall
and cot
Would leave the world, if love were not,
A wilderness of gloom.

The living room was beautifully decorated in summer flowers, with the golden glow predominating, and the dining room was bright and inviting with a profusion of pink roses and carnations. After a business session, a school girl party was enjoyed, with the pupils dressed as school girls and Mrs. W. A. Bowen as teacher. The costumes were original and attractive, provoking much merriment, and during the school session the teacher manifested her ability as a disciplinarian, and a teacher of the three "R's." At lunch hour a most tempting lunch was served.

Jerusalem The Unhappy

Editorial Opinion Memphis Commercial Appeal

When Gen. Lord Allenby led the victorious British Egyptian expeditionary forces through the gate of Jerusalem a decade ago, his sabers were sheathed and his sidearms were covered. Instead of the usual arrogant spirit characterizing a conquering army there was present an almost indefinable emotion, one born of recognition that forces of a Christian nation were taking over after 1,000 years of Moslem rule the cradle of Christianity.

The idealists saw in Allenby's quiet entrance the climax of a new crusade, the dawn of the day on which the New Jerusalem was to be born, and the beginning of an era when an oppressed people would be restored to their own—when Palestine would become indeed the land of "milk and honey."

Today Jerusalem finds history repeated and becomes again a dark and fearful ground. In the hideous offspring of racial and religious difference, intolerance and fanatical zeal. Blood runs in the streets where walked the Nazarene. At Hebron, David's capital, students perfecting themselves as teachers of an ancient faith become the victims of mobs. It is a tragic picture.

It is a challenge to British statesmanship, to British ideals of justice for the oppressed, to her reputation for ability to handle desperate internal situation. Here is the mandate and to her the signatory nations which under the Versailles treaty gave her the protectorate of Palestine, will look for an immediate suppression of the disorders.

The British civil administration has failed. It has been negligent in that when the intense feeling underlying the present outbreaks were first sensed, it failed to immediately provide the necessary police force to cope with just such a situation as has arisen. Trouble had been brewing for weeks.

Back of it are the recent disturbances over the "Wailing Wall," a place of prayer for the Jewish people, but back of that is Moslem hatred for the Jew, a hatred that has been breeding for centuries. Present with the hatred is intense resentment against the British mandate and British sympathy for the Jews. There is hope in Moslem for a great Arabic confederation. There is the fanaticism that is Mohammedism.

The Jews are outnumbered four to one. The rapidity with which the rioting spread shows the total lack of precaution taken by British authority. If the same sort of stupidity was shown in British administration in India and Egypt, both hotbeds of religious fanaticism, British dominion would go by the board in an incredibly short time.

The "Wailing Wall" troubles the first tangible sign that serious difficulty was ahead. They were incidents, of course, in a complexly emotional situation, but they warranted an uncompromising stand. Offense to the Moslems, who consider the "Wailing Wall" a part of the Mosque of Omar, would have meant offense to Moslems in Egypt and India, yet if there was to be a choice between offense to Islam and strict adherence to the requirements of the Jewish mandate there would seem to be no choice. Britain's responsibility is to aid in the establishment of the Jewish national home and to safeguard the lives of a minority.

Had the forces moving on Jerusalem from Gibraltar and Egypt been requisitioned when trouble was apparent then present situation would have been impossible. The civil administration in Palestine has not represented the desires of the British home government. Somewhere between Jerusalem and London the aim of the British government appears to have been lost. Whatever the motives behind the riots responsibility for their existence rests upon those who could have prevented them by providing the only feasible means in such emergencies—force.

Continuance of the disorders depends only upon the length of time it will take Britain to get adequate military units into the affected area. When order is restored it may be best for the present that the military admin-

Having accepted the responsibility of protecting Palestine, it is clearly up to Britain to use the resources of her empire, men and money to whatever extent necessary, to satisfactorily fulfill her obligation. RELIEVED CAUSE OF SEVERE HEADACHES

Painful Symptom of Constipation Disappeared After Her Use of Black-Draught.

Baton Rouge, La.—Many a man or woman has found relief from headache, when a condition of constipation was the underlying cause, by taking a simple, powdered preparation of selected medicinal leaves and roots, known far and wide as Theodor's Black-Draught.

Here is an instance of how Theodor's Black-Draught proved of benefit to a Louisiana lady:

"About two years ago I was suffering from constipation," writes Mrs. F. Guidry, of 620 North Street, this city.

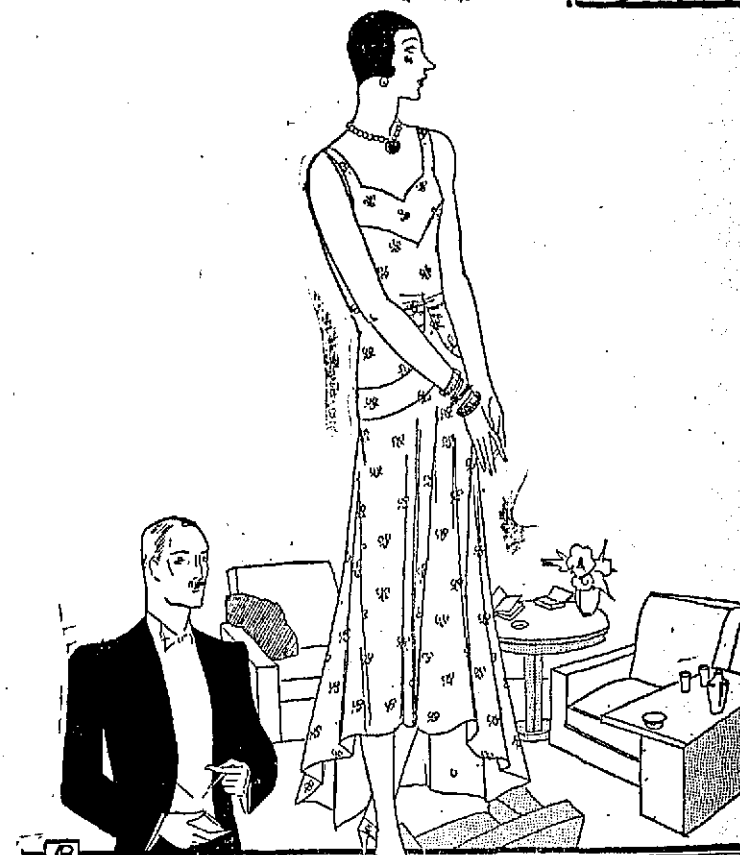

"I would have severe headache and would have to stay in bed a day or two at a time. I tried different remedies, did not get relief. I read of Black-Draught, and decided to try it, and have never been sorry I did, for it gave me relief quicker than anything I have ever tried.

"And now, whenever I feel the least symptom (of constipation) I take Black-Draught, and that keeps off the headaches. I am much better since I began taking it, and I gladly recommend it to my friends."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Graves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Helen Page feels unhappy when the girls at the boarding school tease her about giving up dancing and parties and being Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian, Leonard Brent, with whom they accuse her of being in love. And her roommate calls her a fool after they see him at the Ritz one day with another woman. Realizing her school-girl situation for him, Brent exacts her promise to do anything he asks her to, and says he will tell her about her parentage after she graduates. One day Brent spies a gold locket on a beggar who has fallen in an alley. He bends over to take the locket and hears, mumbled words which cause him to try to save the old man. But he dies before Brent can verify any dates or facts except that his name is Charles Owens Nellin; that his wife is dead and that he has hidden his daughter from her wealthy grandfather, Cyril K. Cunningham, of Yonkers. Posing at a newspaper man searching for story material, Brent decided to see Helen as soon as possible. It would be necessary, now that his plans were changed, to start undoing the campaign he had been at pains to conduct in the past—his campaign to win Helen to unwavering allegiance to him and blind acceptance of his wishes. He had been highly satisfied with it but he foresaw that it was going to be a bit difficult to make his past attitude fit the one he must assume for the present. But that, again, was a hazard that he must accept. No game worth playing was without risks and hazards, in Brent's opinion. Helen, when he surprised her by coming unannounced, welcomed him with delight. His manner toward her was just a shade more familiar than before. But he said nothing to her, than, of the story he meant to tell her when she graduated. As that event loomed nearer Helen grew radiant with expectancy and happiness. Brent had, gradually, dropped all aloofness in exchange for a manner that Helen believed promised the fulfillment of her dreams. She felt herself displacing all other interests in his life. Together they would travel all over the world, and whether or not that glorious day ever dawned on which he would tell her, with new meaning, that he loved her, she could never be unhappy again. She went through commencement in something of an emotional daze. And when at last she was seated beside Brent and on her way to New York, out of school, with a world of romance ahead of her, she felt unbidden tears stealing into her eyes. But they were tears of joy. Brent sensed that she was struggling to suppress her emotion. He took the wheel firmly in his left hand and laid the other over hers where they rested on her smart cord bag. "Happy?" he asked softly. "So happy I'm afraid," Helen answered. "But my dear, if you only knew what your life really should be like I'm afraid you wouldn't be able to contain yourself. You have a right to a wonderful heritage, Helen." Helen fixed her wide eyes upon him in silent interrogation. So much of her life had been filled with mystery and she had been so thoroughly drilled not to ask questions that she did not think to take advantage of the change in the man who had been responsible for her training, and voice her questions. "But first," Brent went on, "before I tell you about that, I must explain to you, Helen, that I've been keeping something from you. Something about myself." Helen caught her breath in sudden dismay. There was a solemn, heavy note in Brent's voice that frightened her. "I've led you to believe that I needed you," he said, and then, as though he were compelled against his will to complete his confession, he hastened to add: "because I couldn't bear to think that you might grow from me. I guess I wanted to be the only man in your life, Helen, and I thought I could do it by making your will subservient to mine." Helen continued to stare at him, all but speechless. "But Leonard..." she began, and stopped. Brent had cut her off. Besides, she was at a loss for words. "But I can't go on with that," Brent avowed. "In fact I haven't been thinking along those lines for some time. You've noticed a change in me, haven't you?" Helen nodded. "A great change," she said softly. "There are two reasons for it," Brent told her. "First, there is my promise to you to tell you about your mother and father when you graduated from school. 'Frankly, I was struggling eternally with the temptation not to tell you at all and to let you believe that I was the only person you had to turn to when you left school. But that is impossible now, even had I decided to deceive you.' He paused, and managed to look forlorn and troubled. "Leonard!" Helen cried. "There isn't anyone but you!" Brent shook his head. "That is not all my dear," he said dejectedly. "I haven't even such right as I had before to lie to you. You see, I've met with bad luck on the mark."

"You may not be able to obtain it, and you may not wish to have it, but I'd never forgive myself if I deprived you of the opportunity to seek it." "Leonard!" Helen protested, "you're talking in enigmas. Tell me what it means." For a while Brent did not speak. Then he said very quietly: "Yes, I will."

ORIGINAL STAGE PLAYERS CAST IN MOVING PICTURE

Six actors who appeared in the Broadway stage production of the newspaper play, "Gentlemen of the Press," have parts in the all-talking picture version of the play which is now showing at the Saenger theatre for two days. The last members of the cast to join the moving picture company was Russell Crouse, widely known columnist of the New York Evening Post.

Penwarden and Levan went with the original cast to play in Philadelphia and made the round trip daily between Philadelphia and the Paramount Long Island studio while taking part in the picture. Ward McHouse author of the play advised on the film production.

Insured buying

There's a way of insuring your buying against wasted money and unsatisfactory merchandise. And that insurance costs you not a penny. It is always paid up to date and in full force.

That insurance is the advertising here in your newspaper. Advertising products are standardized, perfected and carefully priced before they are even advertised.

Whether you are buying soap, clothing, shoes, toothpaste, food or electrical household appliances, the result is the same. You get reliable, economical merchandise whenever you buy by the advertisements.

Make up your insured shopping list in the comfort and quiet of your own home. Compare the merits of the products advertised. Study the way in which each is adapted to your needs.

You'll find advertising truthful, informing and interesting. That's the only sort that pays, you know.

Every dollar you spend on advertised merchandise is insured against waste.

Fans Promised A Boxing Treat

No Odds On Hall To Win
Over Louisiana Flash
In Tilt.

Boxing fans here awaited with a good deal of interest the outcome of the main event, Thursday night when Johnny Hall, Little Rock protégé of the Missouri Pacific, swaps wallops with one Ill. Mitchell, Louisiana punch boy who has slipped a tummy punch across on more than one opponent.

Promoter Robins Monday wired Mitchell and his manager transportation and a guarantee, requesting they show up not later than Tuesday night. If they have hit town they haven't shown at fight headquarters nor around the sporting desk in this office, but it is believed both will be here this afternoon.

This Quillen boy, from down Spring Hill way, who steps a few hurdles with John Celmar, is not anybody's set-up for anybody. He may not know as much about the game as Young Strubbling nor be as flashy as Jim Corbett, but if he ever gets home with his right—call the nurse! It's an all-night job!

Kid Bradley, Smackover, is another youngster the fans will like to see in action. Overcoming physical defects, seemingly insurmountable, under Jack Steele's physical culture training, the Kid is becoming normal and in a few months expects to be as good as any of them. A trouble in infancy apparently permanently crippled him, but proper dieting, scientific exercise and rigid adherence to training rules has wrought wonders with him and made him one of the cleverest juvenile boxers in this section.

Just by and large, a real fight card is promised and with rearrangement and numbering of seats fans will have opportunity to really enjoy themselves.

When Favorite Runs Last

In the racing charts the other day, covering a program at Hawthorne track, Chicago, was the notation after one race, "Start good for all but Click." Click was the favorite and ran next to last.

If you happened to have your money on Click that day, you might have made a mental note to the effect that Jokey T. Burns probably was right in the middle of a soothing nap when the barrier went up, called yourself $2 poorer and let it go at that. However—

When the horse was examined

SEARCHING FOR THE BODIES

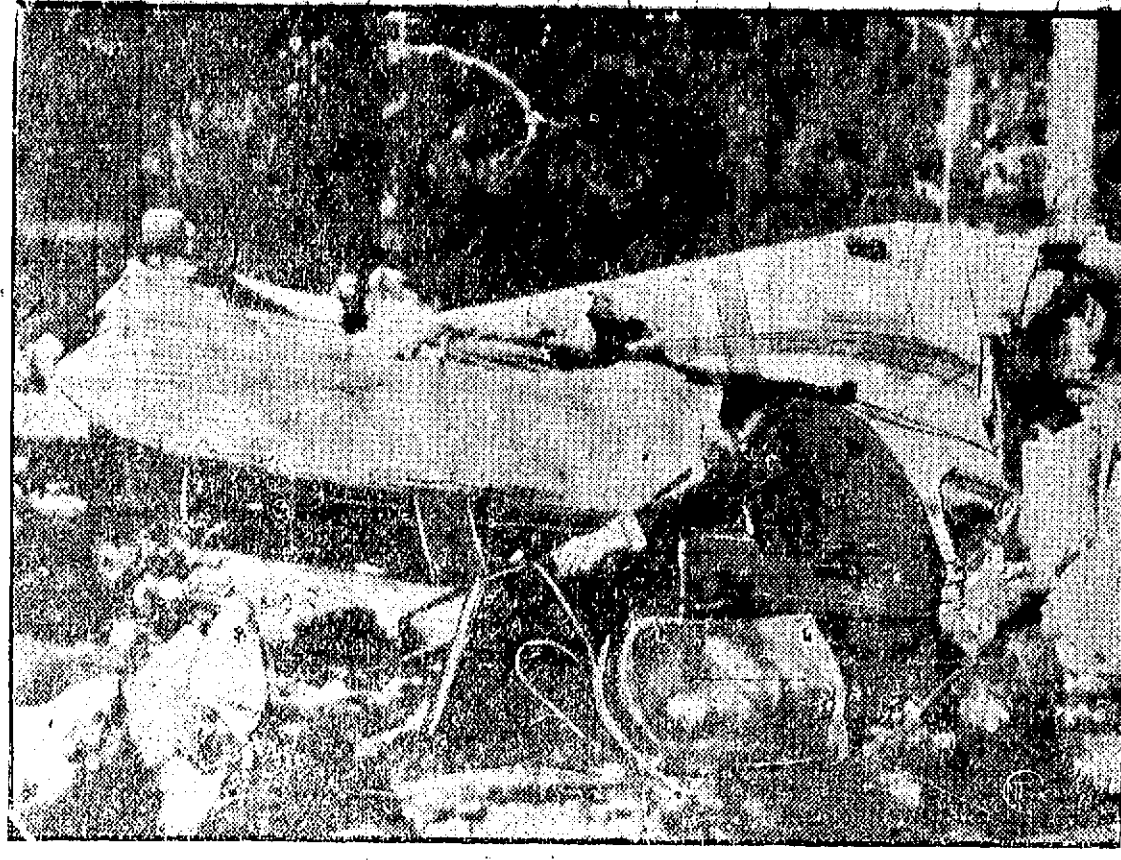

Photo copyright 1929, by NEA Service. Transmitted by Telephoto.

One wing ripped completely off and the other crumpled and twisted beside a shattered cabin, the Transcontinental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco presented a tragic sight as members of the party that finally reached the scene of its tragedy on a remote New Mexico mountain began to search the debris for the bodies of the woman and seven men who had perished in the crash. This picture, taken by Photographer W. T. Mullarky, shows the searching party beginning its grim task.

after the race, he seemed to have difficulty in breathing. Probing in his nostrils, track officials found a small sponge. No wonder Click ran next to last!

Didn't Do It Himself

The case was investigated. All that was learned was that someone must have put that sponge there. The horse was exonerated at least; it was apparent he didn't put it there himself. Betting ring revenge, or a clique betting on some other horse in the race? Write your own ticket.

An effort was made to trace bets throughout the country, but no big wagers on another horse were found. The men mean enough to do that to a horse that is favorite in a race probably wouldn't bet more than $2 apiece, one official said.

Down in the Paddock

Any number of people want to see how a horse looks before they bet their money on him. There is always an interested crowd around the paddock where the horses are saddled before the race. Most of those who stand around the paddock know nothing whatever of horses; a few are very well posted.

A woman race follower once told me she liked to bet on the horses that perspired the most. A man told her once that horses ought to be pretty warm before starting the race in order to do their best. A man in the paddock down at Saratoga told me he liked to bet on the biggest horses. One man said he never liked to pass up a gray horse.

Tips From Hirsch

Maxie Hirsch, one of the cleverest trainers in the business, the man who handled Sarazen when no one else could do anything with the cunning creature, offers a few points for the paddock enthusiasts to follow.

Good depth, rather than breadth of chest, is desirable, according to Maxie, for that indicates a stout heart.

Wide hips, a straight hind leg

WHERE EIGHT AIR TRAVELERS DIED

Photo copyright, 1929, by NEA Service. Transmitted by Telephoto.

The terrific force of the crash that reduced the City of San Francisco, Transcontinental Air Transport passenger airplane, to a heap of charred and battered metal and fabric is graphically shown in this striking picture, taken at the scene of the tragedy by W. T. Mullarky, first photographer to view the wreckage. Note how the crash has obliterated all of the airplane's lines; this pile of debris—still imprisoning the bodies of its eight victims at the time this picture was made—bears no resemblance whatever to the trim trimotored liner that headed west from Albuquerque to Los Angeles.

and clean-cut hocks are essential. Fat is a detriment.

The horse should have an intelligent head with well-set eyes. The jaw of the true thoroughbred is wide. Shoulders should slope well without being loaded. The cannons, that part of the leg from the knee to the fetlock, should be short.

Looking Into Their Noses

These are good points to remember, but the fact remains that occasionally a horse that looks like a cross between a goat and a giraffe wins the championship of his class.

Then, too, Maxie didn't say anything about looking into their nostrils for sponges.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN,

That in pursuance of the authority and directions contained in the decretal order of the Chancery Court of Hempstead County, made and entered on the 4th day of July, A. Helen Wills Scores Starvation Diets, Advising Girls on Health and Charm

Proper Food, Exercise and Sunshine Best Guarantees of Happiness and Success, Says Champion.

THE fad for reducing diets for the sake of a boyish figure finds no friend in Helen Wills, America's premier woman tennis player, who holds that good health is the young girl's greatest asset, that without it she cannot hope to compete in life with her sturdier sisters, but that with it there are no limits to her possible achievements.

"To the young girl who is anxious to increase her charm and good appearance," Miss Wills says, "I would say, for health and beauty, and for getting the most out of life, stick to sensible habits of eating. Never run the risk of ruining your health by foolish food fads, and keep out in the open as much as possible.

"I most emphatically do not approve of eliminating nourishing foods from the diet, especially in the case of growing girls who need every ounce of reserve force. Lacking this important force, it is impossible to meet any crisis with success. In tennis, we players are under a strain more or less, of both a physical and mental nature, and we must maintain our energy by some method of refueling, especially during strenuous matches.

"It is a habit, therefore, to partake of some strength-building foods, usually a hot beverage and perhaps a few sweet crackers. The most wonderful energizer in the world, I have discovered, is sugar. It is the best thing I know, and I use it extensively. Usually I take physical manner, she will never become over-weight to an alarming extent if she takes sufficient exercise. Weight charts have never appealed to Miss Wills as accurate evidence of one's physical fitness. She does not accord with the standard weight for her height by several pounds, yet she is strong and absolutely healthy in every respect.

Naturally, Miss Wills explains, she is a firm believer in outdoor exercise, and she feels that organizations which foster an interest in sports are contributing greatly to the development of the finest type of girlhood. Tennis leads in her estimation, but she believes that even tennis should be played in moderation. "It is a strenuous game and should be taken gradually," she says. "That is, one should not over-play. This applies to the seasoned player as well as to the beginner."

Sugar, Miss Wills says, is the world's greatest energizer, and here she appears with a lump of her energy food clutched in her good right hand.

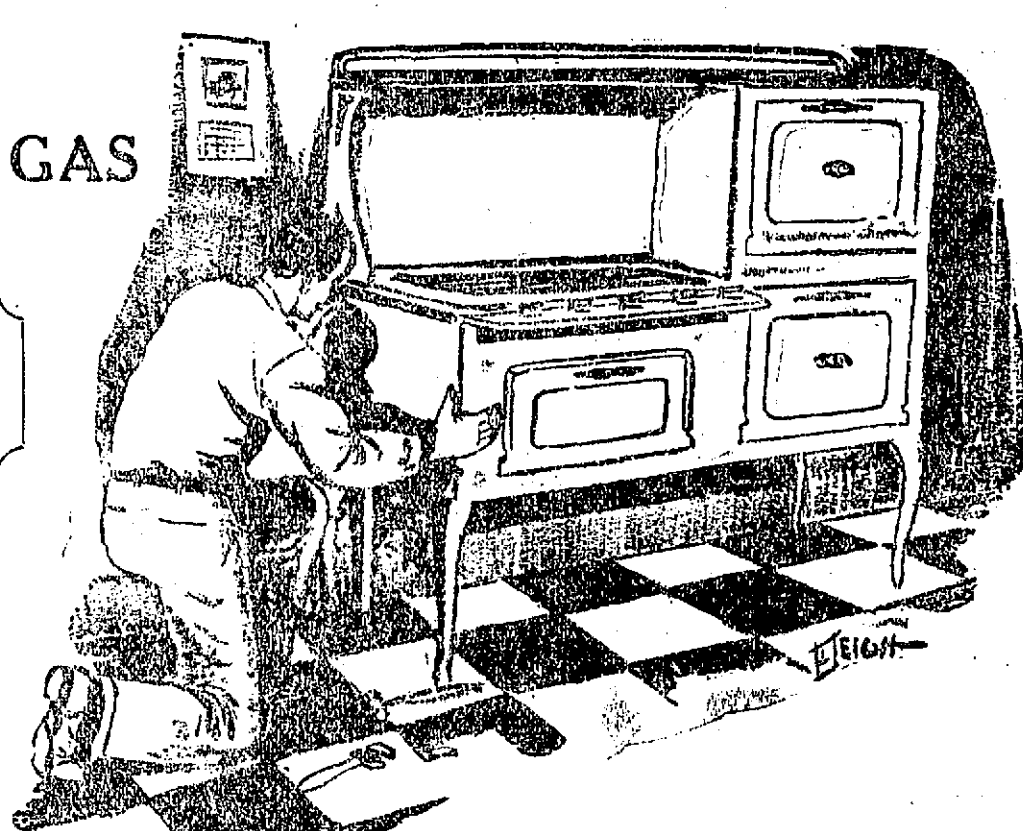

several lumps dissolved in a cup of hot water. This is much more palatable, of course, with a dash of lemon.

For the girl who is obviously over-weight, Miss Wills has no admiration, but she believes that unless a girl is afflicted in some

The Story of NATURAL GAS

Believing that you are interested in the story behind the gas you take for granted, this series of advertisements is being published.

Gas Reaches Your Home

After the pipe crews have run the gas mains into the compressor stations, then through the streets of your city, either your own plumber or experts of the gas company pipe the fuel into your yard and through your home. Great care is taken to insure accurate and perfect fittings. Gas troubles have become a thing of the past in homes supplied with natural gas.

Months have elapsed and miles running into the thousands have been traversed since the first operations were begun by the geologists to locate likely fields. All this has been necessary to bring natural gas to you. While the major operations have been described to you, we have not yet seen all that goes into making the service of your gas company the institution that it is. The Story of Natural Gas is not yet complete.

South Arkansas Chamber of Commerce Sponsors Exhibit

Agricultural and Industrial Showing at Fair Here Will Be Among Most Interesting of Many Exhibits Secretary Pigg Claims.

Among the new educational features to be seen at the annual Southwest Arkansas Fair to be held in this city September 23 to 28 inclusive will be the South Arkansas industrial exhibit which is being sponsored by the South Arkansas Chamber of Commerce.

This exhibit will represent the manufacturing interests of the various cities of South Arkansas. In the collection will be seen the products of the cement plant at Okay; the paper mill, the furniture factory and the pottery plant of Camden; the textile mill of Magnolia; the canning and packing plant of Stumps; the various industries of Hope and other South Arkansas cities.

The purpose of this exhibit is to encourage a greater interest in the industrial development of this section of the state according to Secretary Luther Ellison of the South Arkansas Chamber of Commerce. After the exhibit has been shown here it will be taken to the Arkansas State Fair where a special building is being provided for housing it during the state exposition. The fair management is anxious that every industry in Hope be represented in this exhibit in order that as good a showing as possible be made for this city. Another new feature to be seen at the Southwest Arkansas Fair will be an exhibit entered by the Arkansas Fish and Game Commission. The fair management has been advised by Secretary Guy Amisler of the Commission that his department will be glad to cooperate to this extent and that the exhibit will be under the supervision of Earl Barham, local game warden. The Arkansas Fruit and truck Experiment Station will also enter a booth this year, according to Director Geo. W. Ware. This exhibit will be strictly educational and farmers desiring information regarding any of the problems being solved by the experiment station are invited to visit this booth. Many other new educational features will be seen at the fair this year.
